Excitement among the Chinese in San Francisco-Terrible Scramble for Wives. A San Francisco correspondent of February 23d says it has been well under-February 23d says it has been well under-stood among Chinese circles for a week or two past that the China steamer which arrived yesterday would bring a large shipment of Chinese women, and in con-sequence great excitement existed among that interesting portion of our commu-nity. Every Chinaman considered him-self entitled to a wife, and determined to obtain her at whatever cost. Word was brought to Chief Crowley that parties were arming themselves and threatening to enforce their rights by the arbitrament of cleavers, iron, bars and revolvers of cleavers, iron, bars and revolvers
With his usual energy he at once detailed a large force and sent them to the dock of the Mail Company to prevent a riot.
When the steamer was coming up the harbor the news spread like wild fire through the Chinese quarter, and at once crowds of their people started for the landing. Every possible means of conveyance was in demand. The high-toned merchants and head men, who were determined to prevent their countrywomen from falling into the hands of their brethren of a lower caste, provided themselves with passes to the dock, and went in backs and on the street cars, while hundreds of women with umbrellas spread over their heads crowded into express and baggage wagons, and the regular "pirates" or sanpans, as they are called in China, har-ried to the place on foot. At least fifteen hundred Chinamen had assembled before the steamer came in sight. Beyond their the steamer came in sight. Beyond their infernal promiscuous jabber, the crowd was quiet unfil the steamer came to her dock. As none but the merchants and the head men who had passes were allowed inside the gates, the rest crowded up to the gates or dispersed along the wharves, lining them away down to Main street. As soon as the officers commenced excitement became intense, and it rethe parties to be rowed to the side of the steamer, hoping by that means to get access to the women, and it required back into the crowd and their place taken back into the crowd and their place taken to be disqualined after the appointment by one who did not scruple to take a had been made. In no case will be made returnable, and shall not be contained at another's expense. While money be refunded. sail at another's expense. While this confusion on the cutside was going on, the women were landed, to the number of 390, placed in a half dozen rows. The examination by the Custom House officers (most of them young men) was exceedingly interesting. Large quantities of opium were discovered on their persons, stowed away in different places. When the search was completed, they were stowed away in large express wagons, and conveyed to such places as An officer was placed in front, two on each side and one behind on each wagon, each armed with a heavy club, to beat off any love-smitten Oriental who might try to board it. It was an amusing sight to see these wagons going up the hill from the dock at full spend, the officers awinging their clubs at the hun-dreds of men who followed, jabbering their disappointment at the top of their lungs. By five o'clock the women were safely stowed away, and under the strong protection of the merchants and head men, who will probably re-ship them to China by the next steamer, or send them over as servants in American families. Despite the various articles written in the magazines and newspapers is denun-ciation of the practice of opium eating, it seems to be on the increase, both in England and in this country. A chemical analysis of this drug shows why and how it is that it completely deranges the internal economy of the system, as well as why the recuperative power of the confirmed opium-eaters is so slight. The Gwin. This man is that ald Grant and drug is a combination of the most of drug is a combination of the most subtle, and, by the Eternal, the administration and various poisons known to science, containing no less than twenty-five ele-ments, nearly all of them more or less noxious. First, there are three earthly meconic and sulphuric, all swift to work him into abuseson the mucous tissues. Besides these are: a green chlorophyl, unclassified, lignin, mucilagin and bassorine, the awiftest of poisons; the nitrogenous alkaloids-porphyroxin, narcein, thebain -of which one grain has produced tetanic spasms—narcotin, codein, opianin metamorphis, and morphis. This dia-bolical combination gradually effects a disorganization of the membranes, paralysis of the excretory functions, a derangement of the liver, diminution of all the vital energies of the system, irreg-ularity of the bowels, and disorder of the nervous system. A recent writer says of the desperate fight which the reforming opium-eater must make, that "in the worst conceivable cases it is at least a opium he may count upon much suffar-less, helpless ruin. The opium-enter must take his choice between the two. On the one hand is hope, continually brightening in the future. On the other is the inconceivable wretchedness of one from whom hope has forever fled. - New York Weekly.

The Latest Orders. The following circular letter issued from the White House, was presented to Mack, who deliberately prints it:

HEADQUARTERS GRANT GIFT ENTERPRISE, } The following instructions are issued for the benefit of those seeking office under the new administration:

Applicants must state the extent and character of the contribution made by them; the time when made; its value then and its value now. If it consisted of real estate they must specify whether it was improved or unimproved; whether town or country property. If city lots whether corner or otherwise; also, whether abutting on an alley or not; if country property how near to a railroad, and whether prairie or timbered. If improved city property, whether gas and water are in all the rooms.

If the contribution consisted of money, the applicant must state the precise

Contributions other than real estate, money or horses may be classed under the general head of "miscellaneous," but the items must be distinctly given, together with their value, etc. Future contributions must be made in wharves, lining them away down to Main street. As soon as the officers commenced rule will admit of no deviation. The landing the women from the steerage the additions, and the unsalable character of quired a large force to prevent them from breaking down the gates. One Chinaman made an assault upon an officer, giving a him blow in the face that brought him to the ground. An Apt Anecdote of Andrew Jackson. From the New York Herald.]

The character in which the politician hould appear in these days is that of an old and intimate friend of General Grant"-that is if he is eager for a fat place, and can prove his claim to the character. There probably never was a man so rich in friends as Grant has become since the idea has spread abroad that more would be given for personal than for party considerations. We are not inclined to regard it as an abuse that a man should stick to his friends. Old which General Jackson nominated a cer-tain Gwin for a good office. The Senate regularly refused to confirm Gwin, and Jackson always sent his name in again. Finally, Jackson had his way, and Gwin had his place. Some one asked the General the meaning of his persistency, and he said: "When my mother and her litshall go down rather than that man shall He who has not this virtue of sticking to his friends generally has no other; and he who has it, and with it has Grant's discretion, will never let it carry

A Queer Translation. Some one translates for the Philadelphia Press what must have been unique French. Here is a specimen. It concerns St. John Montmirel, who told high-waymen where his money was: This he did because he was so uprigit cons that he bent backwards. And the thieves came back, but when they found how the cat jumped, and why he hailed them, they swore great gans and small tacks they wouldn't go back on him. So they all repented together, and shook down their sins on the smash, and went he-and-she athen. And St John died in the odor of sancity in 1473. He was one 'sm; for which reason they inscribed on his tombstone:

Strange Nuptials - An Angry Rusband Parts with his Wife at the Altar. From the New Orleans Picayune.]

Sometime since a well-known young gentleman appeared at one of our metro-politan churches with a very beautiful young lady, and invoking the services of the minister, was immediately united to her in marriage. The lady appeared deeply agitated, and there was a stern determination visible on the countenance of the youth—a pale, angry face—evinc-ing anything but joy in the nuptials. As soon as the ceremony was concluded, the man turned to the lady with the re-

"I have kept my promise now—you are married to me; but I'll never look on your face again."

There was a frantic appeal in the girl's sctions and tears. She begged, implored him to recall his words—promised some wild things better left unprinted—and then sank fainting to the floor. The man turned on his heel and quitted the What did it mean?

The simple relation of facts look like the coloring of romance, yet are they true in every particular. When it is fur-ther stated that the parties are of high sum, and whether it was in bonds, gold or currency.

If the contribution consisted in horses, the applicant must state precisely the age, color, sex and condition of the animal, and whether thoroughbred or not, with a carefully prepared pedigree in the former case.

Contributions other the condition of the lady, and she, if indeed she can, refuses any explanation.

Disqualified Officers. The following is the bill to enforce th

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled, That whenever any person shall hold office contrary to the provisions of the third section of the fourteenth article of the amendment of the Constitution of the United Senate in the United fourteenth amendment: ceed against such person by writ of quo District Court of the United States in such district, which courts are hereby authorized to take jurisdiction thereo and to prosecute the same to the remova of such person from office; and any writ shall take precedence of all other cases on the docket of the court to which it is satisfaction of the court.

London urges that encores ought to be suppressed. They fatigue the artists, protract the performances, and are sure to displease some of the audience. In classical works of any dimensions the repetition of any movement damages the effect of that which follows. In sacred and secular works familiar to the people certain favorite pieces are stereotype encores, quite irrespective of the style in which they are occasionally given. A few top notes, delivered with an inflated chest, for a final cadence, are a sure bait to secure an encore to a young, aspiring vocalist. Tenor singers, with tender throats, suffer most in complying with these indiscreet demands upon their exertions.

The Parliament of Great Britain, now sitting, has been singularly unfortunate in the loss of its members by death. Since last December, when it met, the demise of five Peers and five members of the House of Commons has occurred men will remember the persistency with | The last death reported is that of Lord Wynford, who died on February 28th, at the age of seventy-two. He was the second Lord Wynford, and son of the celebrated Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, Sir William Draper Best.

States has recently been the subject of a report transmitted by the Secretary of British Legation at Washington to the English foreign effice. The Secre-tary of Legation, it is stated, reports that the resources of the United States are so ample, and the character of the people so energetic and industrious, that a suspension of their wonted prosperity can only be regarded as temporary.

The Hungarian press still opposes violently the presumed designs of Prussia, and advises the Southern States of Germany to form a Southern Cenfederation. It also accuses Prussia of trying to unite Hungary in Germany.

Chinamen are considered good "matches" among the lower classes in England. As old Englishwoman explains these mixed marriages thus:
"You know, with too many of these rough Cornishmen, it is, 'Well, is my ten eady? and if the wife says 'No,' perhaps he knocks her down at once, or abuses her at least; but, lor! these Chanymen are always so kind to their wives; they dote on the ground they

BEE

HE ABOVE OUT REPRESENTS THE FINLEY BEE HIVE, WITH THE UPPER I portion partially elevated, showing the position of the Honey Boxes. The lower section is shown with the door open; thus showing the position of the tubes. The above cut shows that the only entrance to the Hive is through the tubes, the lower ends of which rest upon the bottom board of the Hive, while the upper ends are in the center, as seen in the cut. The Hive is also provided with a Perforated Ventilator in such a manner as to ventilate it and at the same time prevent moths or other insects from entering it. It will be seen from the position of the o her that the moth, or miller, will have to pass through the very heart of the family of bee t efore admittance would be gained within the Hive; and, from the known habits of the moth, will never be done; and if it were attempted, it would only insure its certain destruction. By baving two or more Honey Boxes in the upper section, hency can be taken at any time without disturbing the bees or breaking the comb. This Hive is so arranged that the honey is always free from young bees, bee-bread or other impurities. The advantages of this Hive over all others, are at once apparent, and wherever it has been tested it has rendered universal satisfaction. Among the advantages are the following, to-wit:

1. It is the only moth-proof Bee Hive in existence, which of itself gives it pre eminence over all others, as the moth is the greatest impediment to specessful has cultur

2. It is the CHRAPEST of all Hives, as the principle can be applied to any kind of Hive, from the common sweet-gum to the courtliest palace, at a cost of not more than one dollar which is quite an item these hard times.

3. Honey can be taken at any time, without disturbing the broad or the bees, and when

4. The lower section of this Hive is so constructed that the bees invariably build straight, regular brood-combs, and can build no other, as the bars are a uniform distance apart, and the

5. This hive can be managed by any one of ordinary intelligence, and does not require any more skill than the ordinary hive.

6. With this hive you are not liable to over rob your bees, as the lower section of the hive

DIRECTIONS FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF THE FINLEY BEE HIVE:

1. Remove the honey bexes from the upper section; then take a piece of new domestic ame as in the "old gum" hive. After your bees are hived, be sure to leave the honey boxes out, which will insure, invariably, straight, regular brood-combs (which is always essential to necessful bee culture), as the bees can build their combs only to the bars, as the muslin will give way whenever they attempt to fasten combit to it. 3. After the lower section of the hive is filled with comb within two inches of the bottom board, remove the cloth entirely from the hive-by sliding a piece of tin or thin plank, cut to fit the hive, under the cloth to keep the bees do an-place your honey boxes in the hive and slip the tin out (to take honey, use the tin the same way, and you can remove the honey boxes without any trouble), and you will have all surplus honey free from impurities. 4. Piace the hive under shelter, where it can have the advantage of the air and the norning sun. Partially remove the ventilator every few days, about noon, to permit the bees to remove any dead beer from the hive, but he sure to close it before evening or you will let the miller or moth in.

5. The winter management the same as the old Hive.

6. At the approach of winter remove the Hive to a warm place; partially remove the Ventilator, occasionally, on warm days, for purposes above named.
